

CONNECTED BY US

Meet Chip Damato, vice president of Inland Cellular. He has been with the company for 25 years.

"Inland Cellular is growing and creating new opportunities in an industry that is full of innovation and excitement. We get to diversify through our network and build new companies like Emerge Technologies. Because we are a team not a corporation there is always room for more vision and more creativity. The thing I like most about working at Inland Cellular is that we get to work together and be resourceful in ways that really make a difference for our customers and our communities."

Chip and his wife, Shelly, have two grown children and are expecting their first grandchild. He enjoys golfing, traveling, spending time with family, and likes "the simplicity" of living in the Inland Northwest. "This area is full of people who actually care and that has made it a great place to raise my family."

Through its products and services, Inland Cellular is "able to create lifestyles and efficiency for businesses and individuals. We get to be different from major carriers and implement customized solutions for each customer. Working for Inland Cellular is rewarding because we are not only a business partner, but a community partner that helps multiple local organizations each year."
