

GROWTH BY US

Valley Vision President/CEO Karl Dye said the new Career and Technical Education centers being constructed by Lewiston High School and Lewis-Clark State College will greatly enhance the economic-development brand for the Lewiston-Clarkston Valley and the greater Inland Northwest region.

"Local employer's talent needs have increased in the last 20 years. Technology and automation require advanced skills to produce more goods and services. Local CTE programs beginning in high school and connecting directly to LCSC and Walla Walla Community College are critical to ensuring our local companies have a skilled employee pool to grow their companies."

The CTE programs also play a significant role in attracting existing businesses to the region, Dye said.

"The first question that site selectors ask when inquiring about relocating a company is the local talent pool. This directly correlates to the local education and specific CTE programs. Valley Vision is working with our local member companies to feed the future demand for specific programs and skills to the Lewiston CTE joint venture and WWCC."
