Meet Debbie Baker, business relations specialist for Valley Vision, which promotes and facilitates economic development in the Lewis-Clark Valley.

Debbie resides in Lewiston with her husband, Ed. They have two grown sons and three grandchildren. She has worked at Valley Vision for 11 years.

“My time is mainly devoted to workforce development projects to educate youth and connect industry with educational institutions to the needs and opportunities available to our future workforce,” said Debbie, who enjoys theatre, reading, music, camping, walking the levee and spending time with her grandchildren when she’s not working.

Debbie enjoys the variety of her job: visiting with students, instructors and industry representatives and seeing those programs come to fruition.

Thanks to her efforts, Valley Vision is able to identify business retention needs with local industries to ensure their stability in the valley.
