Meet Deb Grove, supervisor at Taco Time in Lewiston. She has worked for Happy Day Corp., which owns and operates the Lewiston, Clarkston and Moscow Taco Times and nine other restaurants in the region, for 45 years.

While she has spent the majority of her career at Taco Time, she also managed Lulu's, the former yogurt shop at Zany Graze, and Who's On First, which is now Main Street Grill.

Her workdays begin at 5 a.m., when she opens up the front area of the store. She rolls burritos, grates cheese gets the store ready for lunch, then goes to the drive-thru to take orders for lunch. "I very much enjoy talking to people, so to be able to do that and help people get some great food to eat is a double win."

Deb enjoys working in her yard, exercising and recreating in the great outdoors. But above all else, she loves interacting with her coworkers and customers.

"It's amazing over so many years to see little ones grow up and raise families of their own. I have watched some little toddlers come in and now years later are bringing little ones of their own in to eat."
