Meet, Dr. Cynthia Pemberton, President of Lewis-Clark State College

In one year in office, President Pemberton has made her mark on Lewis-Clark State College and the LC Valley as a high-energy, hands-on, and fully invested leader who is propelling the institution to even greater heights. Her focus early on has been on communication and connection with the campus, the community, the state, and the region. Her efforts have included individual visits with all 472 of LC's full-time employees and attending countless community events and meetings. President Pemberton knows how important the community is to the college and how important the college is to the community, and is excited to foster even stronger relationships and opportunities for collaboration.

In year two, President Pemberton is working to forge LC State's identity as Idaho's college of choice for an affordable high quality, hands-on/real-world education experience; and put in place action strategies that will carry LC into the future serving the needs of students, our community, and our region. Thanks to its combination of excellent programs, affordable value, and a student-centered campus and approach, President Pemberton believes the college is both positioned and poised to grow its role, effectively empowering students to become successful citizen-leaders of tomorrow.

"Whether traditional or non-traditional, full- or part-time, online or on campus, Lewis-Clark State College is Idaho's college of choice for students seeking an interpersonal, private school experience at a public school price. We have a 126-year track record of serving students and serving them well, and with your support we will continue to build upon this legacy of excellence for years to come."

COMMUNITY LEADERS BY US

Meet Gary Offerdahl, a non-traditional student, who earned a bachelor's degree in Communication Arts in May at Lewis-Clark State College. Gary started college after high school but left to follow his wife when she began optometry school. He became a stay at-home parent to their three daughters, but when his youngest daughter entered high school, Gary knew it was time for him to go back to school and finish his degree. He enrolled at LCSC in the fall of 2017 and repeatedly made the Dean's List. He says the college was the perfect fit for him.
