

MADE FRESH BY US

Meet Patti Humpherys, general manager of Taco Time in Clarkston.

Patti is the undeniable friendly face of the second-highest earning Taco Time franchise in the nation. She has been working at the restaurant for 19 of her 24 years with Happy Day Corp., which owns and operates 13 restaurants plus catering in Lewiston, Clarkston and Moscow. She's also the proud mother of four grown children and one grandchild (with another on the way).

Her workdays start early in the name of high-quality food. "We don't take short cuts. We shred the lettuce, slice the tomatoes, brown the meat, shred the cheese, make the refried beans and rice, cook the taco shells, chips and everything else -- every day, fresh."

Her crew members and "great customers" are what she loves most about her job. She loves working with the 'kids', or young people on her crew. "They have a whole different perspective on the world, and I think that's what helps keep me young."

"Happy Day is a great company to work for. People work for Happy Day for a long time because they are flexible and understand that family comes first."

BUY LOCAL AND MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

SUPPORTED BY US

"Shopping locally creates a closer community because you get to know store owners and employees and they get to know you. Everyone loves the feeling of going somewhere where 'everybody knows your name'.

"It also creates a stronger local economy, which goes without saying as dollars spent locally, stay local."
