Meet Mike Bly, Senior VP of Business Operations at Inland Cellular.

Mike and his wife, Michelle, enjoy the clear skies, beautiful scenery, friendly people, and slower pace that the Inland Northwest has to offer. Mike is an avid movie fan and enjoys 4 wheeling, politics, audio books and football – go 'Hawks!

In the 22 years that Mike has worked for Inland Cellular, he's proud of the culture the company has built for employees that allows each person the ability to make a direct impact on the company's success. It creates an environment of employees committed to improving the communities that they serve.

"I get to work in a dynamic, evolving industry where there is always something new around the corner, and it has improved our lives in so many ways. I enjoy being able to make a real impact on this business, and in the lives of our customers. As a senior manager at IC, no two days (and sometimes no two hours) are the same. I spend my days providing info, tools, and leadership so our employees and company can thrive."

"It's very important to the health of my business that our community seeks to shop local first. I am able to have and keep employees, donate to local charities, clean up my building, clean up the sidewalk and planters that line our streets, making downtowns more beautiful, welcoming and fun for people to experience. When you are thinking of your gift buying this holiday season, think local; when you think of corporate gifting, think local. Most retail in our downtowns struggle from January through March ... and really need the boost of the holiday sales to help them make it through the first part of the following year."
